HELLO, EVERY-ONE...
IT'S NICE TO MEET YOU.

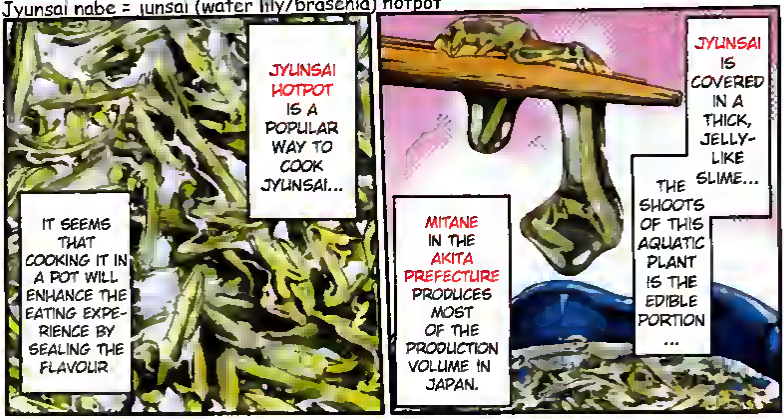
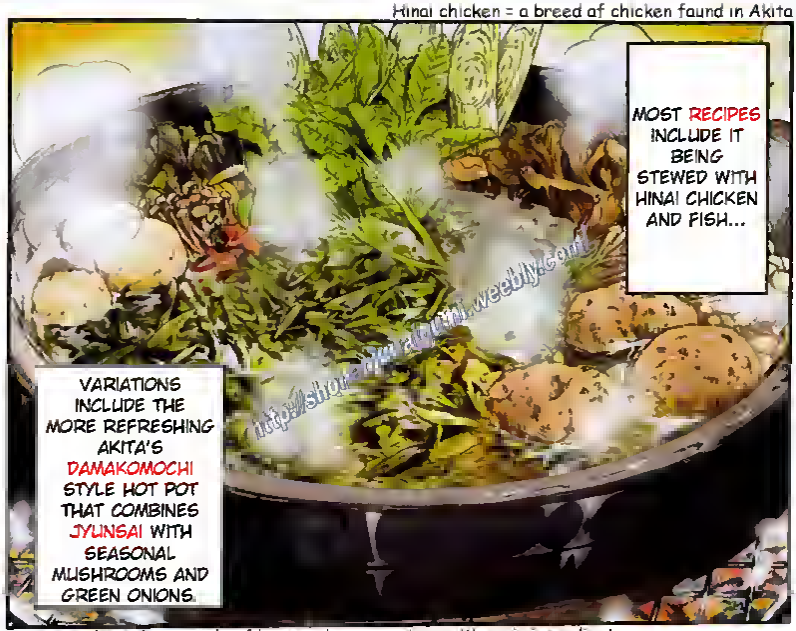
Jyunsai nabe = junsai (water lily/brasenia) hotpot



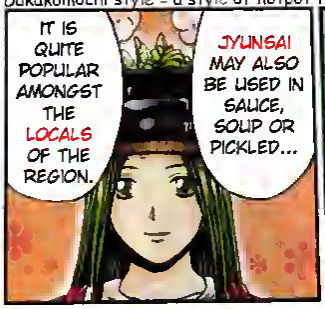
JYUNSAI HOTPOT IS A POPULAR WAY TO COOK JYUNSAI...
IT SEEMS THAT COOKING IT IN A POT WILL ENHANCE THE EATING EXPERIENCE BY SEALING THE FLAVOUR
MITANE IN THE AKITA PREFECTURE PRODUCES MOST OF THE PRODUCTION VOLUME IN JAPAN.
JYUNSAI IS COVERED IN A THICK, JELLY-LIKE SLIME...
THE SHOOTS OF THIS AQUATIC PLANT IS THE EDIBLE PORTION ...

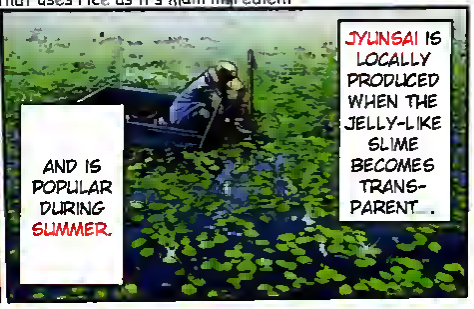
Hinai chicken = a breed of chicken found in Akita

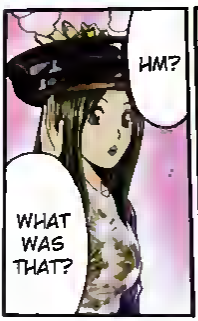


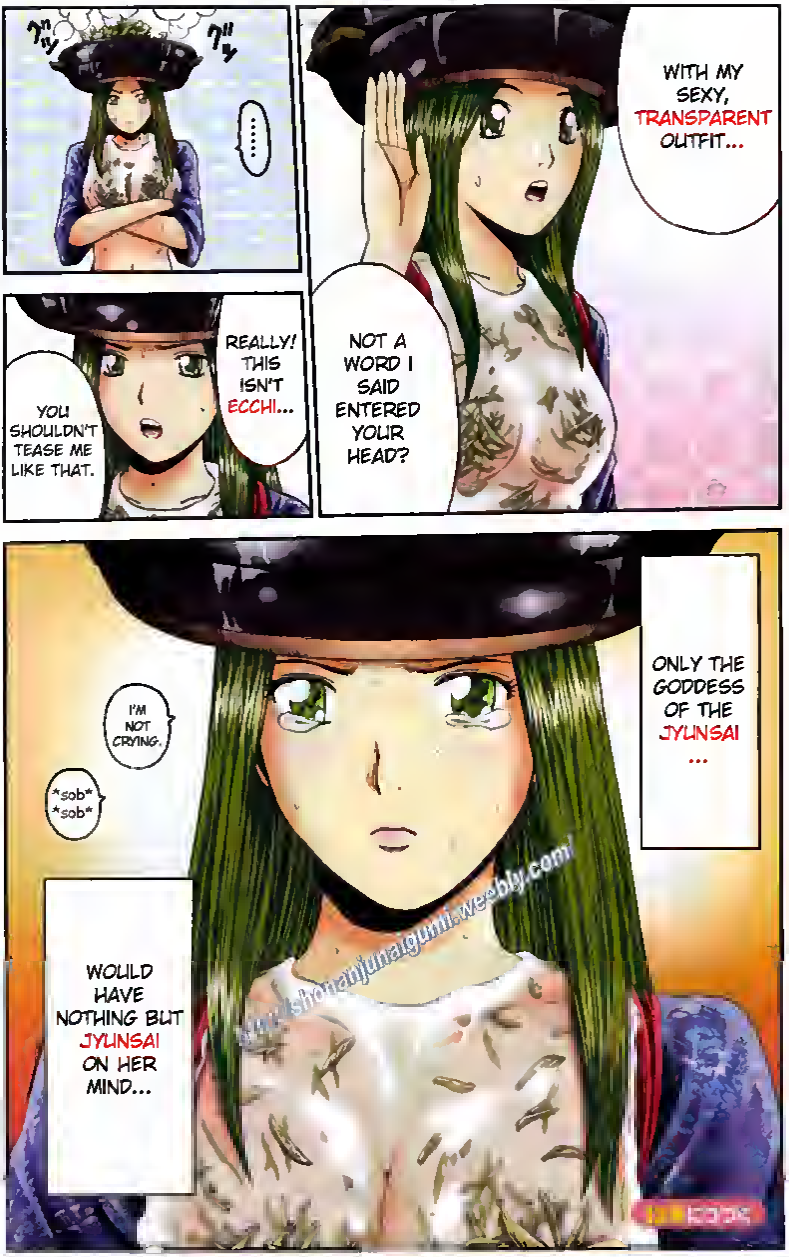
MOST RECIPES INCLUDE IT BEING STEWED WITH HINAI CHICKEN AND FISH...
VARIATIONS INCLUDE THE MORE REFRESHING AKITA'S DAMAKOMOCHI STYLE HOT POT THAT COMBINES JYUNSAI WITH SEASONAL MUSHROOMS AND GREEN ONIONS.

Dakakomochi style = a style of hotpot that uses rice as it's main ingredient









WITH MY SEXY, TRANSPARENT OUTFIT...
NOT A WORD I SAID ENTERED YOUR HEAD?
REALLY! THIS ISN'T ECCHI...
YOU SHOULDN'T TEASE ME LIKE THAT.
ONLY THE GODDESS OF THE JYUNSAI ...
I'M NOT CRYING.
sob sob
WOULD HAVE NOTHING BUT JYUNSAI ON HER MIND...
